DEMANDS NEW FAIRGROUND OUTSIDE CITY

Agricultural Society Brands Present Site Uneconomical as Well as Eyesore.

By PHILIP GREENE

A bigger and better county fair on a bigger and better fairground somewhere outside Mansfield is the nearly unanimous desire of the county Agricultural Society. Members said so at a meeting with the fair board in the courthouse last night

Demands for a better fair on new and more impressive grounds were contained in two motions passed by the 50 society members present.

The first motion, for a more creditable fair than those afforded by the "junior" affairs of recent years, was voted unanimously when everyone present stood to be counted.

The second motion, to abandon the present fairground and establish a new one outside Mansfield, was approved by all but a few society members.

'New Blood' Appears.

Last night's meeting, attended also by 15 or 20 interested persons who were not society members, culminated a summer membership campaign staged by the board in order to get "new blood" into the society in hopes that the new members would provide stimulus to the fairs.

The society now numbers 196 members, the largest roster in its history and nearly five times its peak membership in years past.

The meeting was the first practical assurance to the board that Richland countians particularly the rural residents, want a creditable fair.

A special committee of the fair board reported it had viewed two possible sites for a new fairground, the 37-acre McFarland farm on State Route 39 west of Roseland and the 86-acre Beechler farm at the north end of Trimble road.

* * *

Sites Reasonable.

The committee said both farms could be purchased at "reasonable amounts" but did not reveal any specific cost figures. It said it would investigate other possible sites before making its recommendations to the board. The present fairground covers approximately 29 acres.

The fair board and society also heard a list of recommendations from the county extension council, a county-wide rural group representing various commodity interests, youth and women's organizations, and farm groups devoted to the improvement of rural living.

While bulk of the extension council's recommendations pertained to the fair itself, several involved the fairgrounds and its facilities. They were: space large enough for parking autos and convenient location and arrangement of facilities, "probably not less than 150 acres"; a race track; an athletic field and buildings, including an all-weather year-around" structure of the coliseum type, and a covered judging pavilion.

It was also pointed out that the present grounds are "uneconomical" because they are economical" use of land in a highly developed and growing city area.

C. S. Henry, president of the fair board, said his group would meet next month to consider the recommendations of the society and the extension council. A later meeting of the society will be held for the election of fair board members for next year.

Campaign Expense Goes Up

It apparently costs money to work "over-time" in advertising your candidacy for a public office.

At least that's what Wesley W. Purdy, Democratic candidate for 17th District representative to Congress, learned today. He had to pay a dollar fine for over-time parking of a truck which bore "Vote for Purdy" signs.

Said Purdy, chuckling, "It's the first time I ever got my money's worth out of a parking fine."

WALLACE PUTS PRESIDENT IN CRITICAL SPOT

Commerce Secretary Plans to Continue Fight on Foreign Policy.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman faced one of the most critical decisions of his administration today — whether to sanction further criticism of his foreign policy by Henry A. Wallace or, possibly, to ask his secretary of commerce to resign.

Wallace, who declared his intention yesterday of keeping up his fight for changes in the conduct of this country's international affairs, was scheduled to see the president either today or tomorrow.

High among the considerations obviously involved in that across-the-desk meeting will be the fact that the congressional elections are only seven weeks off.

Republicans Active.

Republicans already are making political capital of Wallace's speech in New York last Thursday and the resulting controversy over it, while Democrats acknowledge privately that they consider the incident their toughest "break" this year.

Democrat National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan discussed the situation with Mr. Truman yesterday.

As for Wallace, friends represented him as pleased over the results of his initial efforts to make a national issue of the state of American relations with Russia.

In Paris, Secretary of State Byrnes maintained complete personal silence. But there was ample evidence that state department officials here were considerably disturbed by what they regard as an appearance of American disunity.

It was understood from top officials that state department leaders are considering a recommendation to Mr. Truman that any further speeches by Wallace on foreign policy should at least be subject to state department clearance.

ORDERS BALLOTS

Election Board Accepts Bid of Mansfield Firm.

A bid of $2,495.50 for the job of supplying the county board of elections with 150,250 ballots for the Nov. 5 general election was accepted by the board from the Richland Printing company yesterday.

The Richland company's offer was the only bid received.

In other business of the board's meeting, requests for a vote on 11 special tax levies and one bond issue were approved and the issues will go on the ballots.

Says Poles Lost Every Peace Aim

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—A former president of the University of Warsaw charged today that "Poland has lost the war, for she has not realized a single war or peace aim."

Dr. Oscar Halecki, director of the Polish institute of arts and sciences in America, declared: "Poland wanted to create a new order based on the four freedoms and in line with their own Christian traditions, but today has lost her freedom, her independence and pride.

NGA Objects to 2nd Fiddle Role

BUFFALO, N. Y. — (INS) — The National Guard association, which is opening its convention in Buffalo Wednesday, is scheduled to unloose a storm of protest against alleged discrimination by regular army "brass hats."

A series of resolutions and floor speeches were predicted today by delegates to the convention who made no secret of their irritation over the army's plan to reorganize the war department, which the National Guardsmen say, makes the civilian officers "stepchildren."

Bullet 'Swallowed' Fifty-Five Years Ago Taken From Lung of Mansfielder In Unique Operation

By GEORGE SATTLER

John Barth, jr., 62, basking contentedly in the morning sunshine at his home in East Mansfield today, called himself "the luckiest man in the world."

Barth has every reason to think so, too, because he carried a bullet lodged in his lung for 55 years—and lived to tell his tory.

"Doctors tell me I'm lucky to be around," Barth chuckled. "And I'm not the one to disagree with them."

Barth has just returned from Jefferson hospital, Jefferson Medical college, Philadelphia, where one of the most talented chest surgeons in the country—Dr. John H. Gibbon—successfully extracted the bullet from his lung.

The strangest part of Barth's strange story is that he was unaware that the bullet was in his lung until last January, when he was hospitalized at the Mansfield Sanitarium-Hospital following a severe lung hemorrhage X-rays taken there showed the bullet lodged in tissue.

* * *

X-RAY RECALLS CHILDHOOD ACCIDENT

It wasn't until Barth was shown the x-ray that he recalled a childhood incident when he had swallowed a 22-calibre bullet while playing

"It happened when I was about seven years old," he related. "I was running with a bullet in my mouth when something happened which made me swallow it.

"I remember crying and running to my mother. They took me to a doctor but of course nothing could be done. They finally gave me a dose of castor oil and the incident was forgotten, since I showed no remarkable symptoms.

Naturally, as the x-ray proves, I didn't swallow the bullet," he said. "What I actually did was gulp into my lungs."

Up and about after months of illness, John Barth, jr., of East Mansfield, enjoys doing light work in his vineyard near his home. Barth recently had a bullet which lodged in his lung 55 years ago, extracted in a unique operation by a Philadelphia surgeon. Insert shows a photograph of the bullet imbedded in lung tissue.

After discovery of the bullet, Dr. Orin A. Beatty of the Richland County T B sanatorium tried to dislodge the bullet by use of the bronchoscope, an instrument designed to see into the lungs and dislodge foreign matter.

However, during the course of more than a half century, nature had walled off the bullet and a pocket of flesh had grown around the pellet. Use of the bronchoscope was unsuccessful.

Dr. Beatty told Barth at the time that he had never heard of a bullet lodging in a man's lung for a period of more than 10 years without causing serious trouble.

"On the advice of my physician, I then went to a specialist in Cleveland, who sent me to Jefferson hospital in Philadelphia," he continued.

"They tried the bronchoscope again there, but each time its use caused a severe hemorrhage."

Finally doctors operated. Altogether Barth had six whole blood transfusions and two of plasma, and slowly his strength came back

"The third day after the operation I was able to eat a full-course dinner," Barth laughed. "And I've been eating plenty ever since.

"As a souvenir, the doctors gave me the bullet," he said, weighing it in his hand. "I guess they wanted to remind me not to swallow any more."

PRICES GO UP ANOTHER RUNG

OPA Hangs Higher Cost Tags on Textiles, Prepares to Act on Dairy Ceilings.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — OPA hung higher price tags on many types of cotton goods and clothing today while the decontrol board neared a decision on restoring price ceilings on butter and cheese.

OPA said about half of the cotton merchandise produced in the country would go up one to two-and-a-half per cent tomorrow as a result of a five cents an hour wage increase recently approved for textile workers. It will be passed on to consumers.

The boost will be one cent on cotton garments and two and a half cents on cotton bed linens, towels, table cloths, napkins and blanket linings.

The three-man decontrol board is scheduled to decide tomorrow whether ceilings on cheese, butter or other dairy products should be restored in view of rising prices.

A report by the agriculture department predicted that prices of all dairy products, if kept free of controls, would jump to new highs this fall and early winter as production hit the seasonal decline.

Meanwhile, OPA completed its first rollback action under the new price control law. It ordered prices of meat dishes served in restaurants pushed back by 10 per cent to June 30 levels.

An OPA spokesman said the agency expected a storm of protest from the restaurant industry advisory committee, which only last week asked for higher ceilings on meat dishes.

Arabs to Confer With Exiled Mufti

JERUSALEM—(INS)—The Palestine Arab higher committee announced today that its members are going to Alexandria, Egypt, Friday to confer with the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem.

The journey is being undertaken in response to an urgent summons by the Mufti, Haj Amin El Husseini, to discuss the Holy Land situation in the light of the round-table conference in London on Palestine.

Report Westinghouse Range Line Halted

Workers in the vitreous enameling plants of the Westinghouse Electric corporation remained off their jobs for the third day today and the situation is threatening to cause another general strike, the News-Journal learned today.

While company officials would make no comment and a union officer declared merely that Local 711, UERMWA-CIO, had neither called nor authorized a strike or walkout, other reliable informants reported that the dispute has idled the entire electric range assembly line.

Employes of the company told the News-Journal that the bottleneck caused by the "vit" walkout had reduced the range assembly line shifts to four hours each yesterday and has completely halted such operations today.

Asked to comment on the reports, Joseph Hawkins, president of Local 711, said "The union has not called a strike or walkout and has not authorized such action."

He would make no further comment. Union members said, however, that the dispute in the enameling plant, reportedly over small paychecks resulting from the incentive system, may bring another general strike against the company such as experienced last winter.

BOYS IN JAIL

Confessed Slayers of Man and Wife Face Murder Charge.

YUBA CITY, Cal —(INS)—Billy Anderson, 16, and Nathan Edward James, 15, were lodged in the Sutter county jail today after being booked for murder.

The two boys arrived at Yuba City last night in custody of Sheriff G. W. Carpenter and District Attorney Loyd Hewitt after an automobile trip from Barstow in Southern California.

The youths talked with jail officials freely and told the same story of the murder of Anderson's father, W H Anderson, 51, and the boy's stepmother, Donnie Anderson, 26, as they recounted at Barstow.

Rev. James L. Boyer, pastor of the United Brethren church here for 11 years will leave his pastorate Friday. With his family he will go to Warren, to become minister at the United Brethren church there.

The change in pastorates was announced at the close of the recent East Ohio conferences of United Brethren churches held at Akron. Rev. Boyer will be succeeded by Rev. Guy Hartman of Beechwood, O.

Coming here from the Bonebrake Theological Seminary at Dayton to serve his first pastorate, Rev. Boyer has remained in Mansfield five years longer than any previous U. B. pastor. He has seen the membership of the church grow from 385 to 496 and the Sunday school from 187 to 263 members. The Mansfield church has made an exceptional record

START HOUSING WORK BY OCT. 1

FPHA Says Order For Projects Here Due Within Week.

An order to proceed with construction of a 50-apartment veterans' housing project in Mansfield is expected to be issued this week, a Federal Public Housing Authority official said today.

This will be the signal for the contractor to begin moving surplus, barracks-type buildings, to local sites, the official said. Nine buildings are to be moved here.

At the latest, actual construction on the project is expected to start within two weeks, according to the official, who said that President Truman has set an Oct. 1 dead-line for the beginning of all such temporary housing projects.

One of the two sites for the 50 apartments has been leased to the Mansfield Metropolitan Housing authority by the county commissioners and the second site was in the process of being leased today.

The commissioners have leased to the authority a 603-by-210 foot plot on the county children's home property at South Diamond and Hedges streets. It was leased to the MMHA for five years at no cost.

Negotiations for lease of the second site on Grace street and owned by John Conard, were expected to be completed today, according to an MMHA official.

The federal housing official at Cleveland told The News-Journal that the FPHA was forced to curtail the number of units allotted to Mansfield because the project was not under construction when a "conserve funds" order was issued to the FPHA. Originally the city was to get 75 units.

No End In Sight To Sugar Scarcity

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Government experts warned today that the sugar shortage will plague housewives well into 1948 and that rationing probably will have to continue for another year.

They feel it will be next spring at the earliest before home and industrial users can even hope for larger rations.

Building Plans Get Board OK

Architects' preliminary plans for a four-room Western Avenue school addition and a new West Fifth Street school were approved last night by the Mansfield board of education, but there appears little chance that any work will be done on the projects this year

The board expects to have plans and cost estimates for the Western Avenue and West Fifth projects and new Roseland building ready within a month or six weeks and then will ask the Civilian Production Administration in Cleveland for construction permits.

If the CPA approves the projects—and it has turneddown similar jobs in other Ohio cities—the board will ask for bids on the three buildings considered most essential in the big elementary school building program

Plans for the Western Avenue building are being prepared by Harry Brumenshenkel while Vernon Redding and associates have been employed to draw the West Fifth plans and Herbert S. Jones is the architect for the new Roseland building.

* * *

ADD TO REAR OF WESTERN.

The Western Avenue addition, designed to match the present structure, will be at the rear of the old school. Plans for that project also call for a combined auditorium and gymnsium, new toilets, locker and shower rooms, and a kitchen and dining room.

The West Fifth building, a two-story streamlined structure, will be built of light colored brick It will contain 21 classrooms, auditorium and gymnsium, and shower and locker facilities

While the architects have had verbal aggreements with the board since last winter, written contracts were approved last night In each case the architect will receive as his fee six per cent of the cost of the project for which he prepares plans.

Preliminary estimates have placed cost of the projects at $294,060 for the West Fifth building, $221,560 for the Roseland building, and $92,705 for the Western Avenue improvements.

Rats Infest Apartment; Attack Baby

DETROIT — (INS) — Three-month-old Cora Estelle Cheatham is in serious condition at Children's hospital in Detroit suffering from rat bites

Hospital authorities refuse to comment on the baby's condition — but her parents report the child's left arm became paralyzed after she was bitten while sleeping in the family's four-room basement apartment

Her father, 33-year-old George Cheatham, described the family's life in their rat-infested apartment as "nightmarish."

"I've stayed up nights and killed rats with a stick," he declared. "One night I set a dozen traps and got 16 of them, from 11 inches long on down in size . . . and the traps weren't even baited."

The father, an unemployed office worker, explained that his wife and four children moved into the apartment last January, paying $41 a month He said the housing shortage has forced the family to stay in the apartment.

Cheatham declared that he has "begged and pleaded to have the floor rat-proofed.' He said "all it is is a wood floor on top of dirt There isn't even a concrete foundation."

The nine-year-old boyking was dethroned a week ago Sunday in a plebiscite in which the Bulgarian people elected to establish a republic. The dispatch said that Simeon and his party arrived by special train and immediately embarked aboard a Turkish steamer bound for Alexandria.

DEALERS VOTE TO CLOSE AS OPA PROTEST

Independent Merchants Act Unanimously at Meet, But Fail to Set Date.

Sixty-three meat and grocery dealers in Mansfield and nearby communities voted last night at a heated meeting to close their stores within the next two weeks and urge closing of all food handling places in the area in protest against OPA meat ceilings and regulations.

The session, from which reporters were excluded, was held in the municipal court room at the city building.

Spokesmen for the group said a "strike" date would bet set at another meeting to be held within a few days.

The "close down" vote was taken after heated discussions about the complete lack of any meat supplies on the retail counters. Bitter charges were hurled at the OPA, blaming that agency "with its low ceiling prices and multitude of confusing regulations" for the empty counters.

Ask Identification.

Verbal fireworks developed soon after the meeting opened when every person there was asked to identify himself and the business house he represented.

Some dealers wanted to map a protest telegram to the OPA and congress. Others called for closing stores next Monday. The dealers decided that to send a telegram would be ineffective and slow. They wanted action now, they said.

They pointed out that any action must come from the public itself. Best way to arouse the public, they decided, was to close the stores, if that becomes necessary to get results.

Plans for notifying the mayor, OPA officials, congressmen and President Truman of the threatened food handler's "strike" hire will be worked out at the next meeting

* * *

Plan to Organize.

This action awaits a further organizing of food handlers throughout the city and county, spokesmen said They added that committees were already working on the organization plans

Last night's meeting was attended by merchants representing the majority of groceries and meat dealers in Mansfield and several from other towns in the county.

Meanwhile, retail grocers in Columbus and Franklin county held a mass meeting "to let off steam" about the meat situation. They considered a proposal to place petitions on their empty meat counters for customers to sign, asking for government decontrol or meat.

Also in Columbus a complete shutdown or drastic operational curtailments in meatless packing plants put hundreds of employes out of work and jeopardized the jobs of many others.

Packing company—closed its beef packing plant yesterday and announced its hog processing division would be forced to close in a "day or so."

Two others — The Columbus Packing company and the Swift and company plant—said they were operating at 20 to 25 per cent of normal capacity. The two plants employ approximately 1,000 production workers.

Elsewhere unemployment mounted in the meat industry while the meat famine spread from coast to coast.

Meat industry leaders estimated that the number of unemployed had reached a national figure of 80,000, while 60 per cent of Chicago's meat counters and shops were closed.

Trade sources reported that not only was meat virtually unobtainable but that meat substitutes were scarce and will become scarcer in the next two weeks.

Poultry, luncheon meats, canned meats, canned fish, and eggs were reported running out, with only the autumn fish catch, expected to reach a peak in the next two months, providing hope in a generally gloomy situation.

BOARD AWAITS NEW CONTRACT

School Officials Expect VA to Renew Vet Training.

Looking to the renewal of veterans' rehabilitation training at Senior high school, the Mansfield board of education last night authorized its president, H. W. Arlin, to sign a new contract as soon as it's received from the Veterans' administration.

The contract under which the training school was operated last year expired last Aug. 31, and Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller said last night he expected a new one to be offered soon.

VA officials of the Mansfield office said today that a new contract was being drawn up in the Cleveland Regional office now, and that it would be offered to the school by Oct. 1 when training is to be resumed.

Numerous courses, largely vocational will be offered this fall depending upon the enrollment which is expected to amount to around a 100 veterans in the courses offered.

In addition to the regular daytime vocational courses offered last year, night courses are to be presented. Among courses to be given this year are wood and metal working, welding, and machine shop.

Under the program the school board provides instructors and is reimbursed by the government for the expense. The program sets up $22 per month per veteran for regular classes and $30 a month for vocational work.

Photographers Plan Outing

Mansfield's photo enthusiasts have been invited to a "Harvest Holiday" next Sunday by Al Schindler, president of the Mansfield Photographic society.

The affair will be held at "Beechmont," Schindler's country home, and is free to all photo enthusiasts.

The Photo society will provide fresh corn and other fall foods to supplement the covered dish dinner which will be served at a log cabin in the woods on the estate.

It is planned to have photogenic materials available so that there will be ample opportunity to do some shutter snapping.

The group will meet in front of the Farmers bank building at 1 p. m. Anyone wishing to attend is requested to call Giles Hamilton, 170 West Third street, so that the committee can arrange transportation and order food.

Serving on the committee, along with Hamilton, are William Moorman, 20 East Prospect street, F. J. Goldsmith of Ashland and Richard Leech of Shelby.

Climax of Rev. Boyer's pastorate was the burning of the $14,000 church mortgage in 1941.

Rev. Hartman preached at the Mansfield church last Sunday and will take over the pulpit again this Sunday. It is expected that he and his family will move to Mansfield sometime next week.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

She was a lovely, warm-hearted little thing, and she loved her "feller" devotedly Her only fault was blind jealousy—particularly of her equally attractive room-mate, Bertha

One evening the boy's old college chum went to dinner with them, and brightened perceptibly at the suggestion that Bertha make a fourth for the party The girl demurred "I'm sick and tired of this idiotic jealousy," her sweetheart declared "Now you take this nickel and call Bertha, or everything is over between us."

Visibly cowed she departed in the direction of the phone booth Five minutes later she was back "Bertha says she's sorry," was the report, "but she worked late at the office today, and she's so tired she's going straight to bed—And here's your nickel back.

TO GAIN the best possible results in the long run, you must protect yourself against not only the probable dangers, but also the improbable ones, when you can In a choice between protection from two different risks, naturally the thing to do is provide for what is really most likely. But sometimes you can guard yourself against both kinds of hazards, and the player who does not takes many a bump which he attributes to hard luck

Kinda, sorta, funny bidding Yet South should have made his slam anyway. The club J lead was won by the A. and East returned the heart K to the A South cleared trumps with the Q, K and A, then began to run spades, hoping to discard all his losers But the bad break of the suit limited his discards to three hearts and one club, so he had to lose a club at the end and be set.

"My proverbial luck!" he exclaimed "A seven-card suit headed by four tops should break every time for anyone else"

It would break for a more careful, thorough and sounder player After scoring one diamond honor in the dummy, he would lead a low spade and ruff it That would have made his contract airtight against any spade division except all six in one hand He could have afforded that, as he did not require seven discards to make his contract Six would have been enough.

HOW TO LIVE LONG

First, know yourself, your neighbors, too.
Then to yourself and them be true

—Old Mother Nature.

"Is it all right now? It must be or you wouldn't be sitting there right out in the open" squeaked the Wood Mouse, cautiously poking his head out from under a fern beside a cowpath in the Old Pasture.

"Of course it is all right. What in the world were you afraid of?" replied Little Wobblenose, the small Rabbit sitting in the middle of the path He sounded a bit disgusted He was He had seen nothing to be afraid of, yet his new friend had a moment before darted into hiding

"That shadow Didn't you see that shadow coming right toward us?" squeaked the Mouse It was the shadow of Blacky the Crow flying over

"Yes I saw it What of it? I'm not afraid of shadows. Don't tell me that you ran away from nothing but a shadow," cried Little Wobblenose

"It was moving," said the Mouse as if that explained everything

"What of it?" asked the small Rabbit

"Caw, caw, caw!" called Blacky the Crow from a short distance away

The Mouse looked relieved He came wholly out into the paths "So it was the shadow of that black rascal!" he squeaked "If I had known that I wouldn't have run He is smart enough to know that he wouldn't have had a chance to catch me so close to cover. He can't fly fast enough for that But there are others who can And they would just as soon catch a foolish little Rabbit as a Mouse, probably rather So you are not afraid of shadows? Well, you'd better be, especially shadows that move If you are not you won't live long. No, sir, you won't live long"

The small Rabbit looked puzzled "That shadow went right over me It didn't hurt me How can a shadow hurt anybody?"

"My! You don't know much," squeaked the Mouse "I wonder that you have lived as long as you have, which isn't very long. I judge It isn't the shadows I am afraid of Of course not Shadows themselves can't hurt any one. It is the ones who make the shadows whom I fear and whom you will fear if there is any sense at all in that funny head of yours. A moving shadow scares me, especially a fast-moving shadow, because it means that some one is coming my way overhead It may be no one to be afraid of, but it may be some one with sharp, curved claws just aching to clutch and carry off a small person like myself or like you Waiting to find out when it is might mean the end of me So any time I see a moving shadow near me I get out of sight in a hurry, just as fast as I know how In that way I have cheated more than one Hawk by day and Owl by moonlit night out of a Mouse for dinner Of course you want to grow up?"

'Caw, caw caw'" called Blacky the Crow from a short distance away

"Of course What a foolish question!" replied Little Wobblenose

"Not half so foolish as your failure to get under those branches as soon as you saw that moving shadow a few minutes ago," retorted the Mouse "If you want to grow up and live long be afraid of everything you don't know about and a lot of things you do know about Never go far from a safe hiding place, and never for an instant forget just where it is and the shortest way there Never wait to find out who makes a moving shadow Hide first and find out afterward. Never be ashamed to be afraid I found out a long time ago that it is the scared Mouse who lives longest, and that for small folks like ourselves it is never foolish to be timid When you see some one run and hide do the same thing yourself Always use your own eyes, but never fail to make use of the eyes of others."

The Mouse suddenly darted out of sight under the fern Little Wobblenose ran into the bramble-tangle A moment or two later the Mouse joined him there "You're learning," he squeaked "Perhaps you will live long after all

"What was it? What frightened you?" asked the small Rabbit.

"Nothing Nothing at all I wanted to find out if you are learning," squeaked the Mouse.

WHILE there is every indication of exceptionally lively, constructive and productive programs for this day, yet a strange or curious twist in events or circumstances is likely to upset plans in an astonishing manner perhaps involving sudden change travel, new alliances and some form of novelty, innovation or original slant, on current conditions

A sane, clever wise manipulation of this curious situation should turn events into constructive and lucrative places where rich rewards are in store Promotion, ambition and happiness in home and business crown worthy efforts Be generous in thought and action

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of most gratifying lucrative and happy culminations for originality, new ideas lofty ambitions innovation exceptional skills or ideas, which attract support from high places and bring the most satisfying and pleasant reactions on the life and its meritorious purposes and objectives

A strange twist of fate or an unique visitation in creative talent or emotional insight, might prove astonishing or bewildering But it will take safe sound and very wise decisions for securing lasting values and for sidestepping weird complications

Report Herman New Pirate Boss

NEW YORK —(UP)— Billy Herman, 37-year-old Boston Braves infielder, will be named manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates succeeding Frankie Frisch before the world series is played, an informed baseball source disclosed today.

The Pirates reportedly have Herman virtually signed, sealed and delivered, thus removing him from the list of candidates for the job as manager of the New York Yankees.

Cardinals Lead By Two Games

By JACK HAND
(AP Sports Writer)

St. Louis' glee over Bill Nicholson's grand slam homer that sunk the Brooklyn Dodgers, 10 to 7, should be tempered by the knowledge that the Cardinals must face the self same Chicago Cubs in six of their remaining 11 games.

If Nicholson, despite his anemic .223 batting average, suddenly reawakens in the final weeks of the season, it will be the Red Birds who will bear the brunt of his attack.

By that time it might make no difference for St. Louis holds a two-game advantage with time rapidly running out in their favor. The Brooks are now one down in the loss column and three on the winning side with 13 to play as compared to 11 for the Cards.

Charley Grimm's Bruins, obviously nettled by the cold statistics that prove they were just a "one shot" champ, are pouring it on down the stretch, playing each game as though it were the payoff tilt in the world series.

The Cubs' 10-7 win went to Hank Borowy over rookie Paul Minner, who made the mistake of throwing a fast ball to Nicholson with a 3-2 count and three on.

Billy Southworth's Boston Braves clinched fourth place, the first time they have finished in the first division since 1934, by shutting out Cincinnati, 4-0, in a night game.

Kenny Raffensberger whitewashed Pittsburgh, 2-0, for the Phillies in the other night game, witnessed by 19,274 fans at Shibe park.

Detroit protected its 2½ game edge over New York in the second place scrap in the American league by hammering Bobo Newsom from the hill in downing Washington, 11-7.

The New York Yankees outlasted the St. Louis Browns, 7-5, Joe DiMaggio driving in three runs to help reliefer Joe Page pick up his ninth win.

Lou Groza Leads Pro Point-Makers

NEW YORK —(AP)— A virtual unknown to professional football, Lou Groza, Cleveland Browns place-kicking specialist, is the leading scorer in the All-America conference with 22 points in two games.

Groza, from Martins Ferry, O., tied the major professional record for field goals from placement in one game when he booted three as the Browns defeated Miami, 44-0. He added two more in the 20-6 conquest of the Chicago Rockets last Friday for a total of five in two games.

The National football league record is held by automatic Jack Manders, Chicago Bears, with 10 for a single season.

Cleveland Indians Idle For Second Straight Day

CLEVELAND —(INS)— The Cleveland Indians remained on the idle list today for the second straight day.

In concluding games of the season, they will attempt to climb closer to the first division. The Tribe will meet the fourth-place Washington Senators in a two-game series in Cleveland tomorrow and Thursday.

Olsen Hands In Resignation; Ohio State Looks for New Coach

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio State university faced the problem today of replacing Harold G. Olsen, head basketball coach for 24 years and assistant athletic director since 1929.

Olsen tendered his resignation to Athletic Director L. W. St. John yesterday in order to become coach and executive vice president of the Chicago entry in the new Basketball Association of America.

The veteran mentor said that "only an unusual opportunity in another field prompts this action."

Olsen had been widely mentioned as a successor to St. John when the latter retires next year. However, Richard H. Larkins was named to become the new athletic director two months ago.

It was expected that Larkins will be relieved of his duties in the physical education department in order to replace Olsen as assistant director while St. John continues to serve.

William H. (Tippy) Dye, Buck football and basketball immortal, and now an assistant grid coach, was generally expected to become head cage mentor. St. John said no appointments would be made until the athletic board meets, Sept. 25.

Olsen's resignation terminated a career highlighted by five Western conference titles. During the period, Olsen-coached squads won 265 games against 181 defeats.

Superior Court Judge John A. Sbarbaro, president of the basketball club of Chicago, who signed Olsen, said the new pro coach would leave Columbus within the next 10 days to commence assembling the squad he will use to navigate the 50-to-60 game schedule now being drafted by sportdom's newest "major league."

Judge Sbarbaro asserted Olsen had been signed because "it is my determination to present professional basketball in an atmosphere comparable with the very best in the collegiate game."

Bertelli to Play With Los Angeles

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. —(UP)— Marine Corps veteran Angelo Bertelli solved his rehabilitation problem today by deciding to play football for the Los Angeles Dons for $10,000, instead of collecting the same amount from the Boston Yanks for sitting on the bench.

A superior judge ruled last week in Boston that Bertelli would have to pitch his bullet passes for the Los Angeles team—or for nobody. The ace quarterback was prohibited from playing with the Yanks of the National football league for the duration of his two-year contract with the Dons.

Shelby Softball Nines Tie, 6-6

SHELBY—The Eagles rallied to tie the Shelby Salesbook company, 6 to 6, in the game that was to determine the championship of the Shelby Softball league Monday night on the waterworks diamond.

If the players can be present, the championship game will be played at 2:30 p. m. Saturday on the waterworks diamond.

The largest crowd of the season was present when more than 1,200 persons witnessed the game.

Strikes Out Forty Batters In 19-Inning Softball Tilt

CLEVELAND —(INS)— A new strikeout mark of 40 for a softball game was recorded today as the world's championship tournament entered the fifth round of double elimination today.

Jim Chambers, of the Match Corporation of Chicago team, set the record last night for his club to beat the Knights of Columbus of Springfield, Mo., 2 to 1, in 19-innings at suburban Garfield Heights.

Friday's Battle With Cleveland East Can 'Make or Break' Tyger Eleven

By FRED THARP
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

Mansfield Senior high school's game with powerful Cleveland East can make or break the Tygers this season.

The up-state aggregation exhibited a potent passing and ground attack and a rock-ribbed defense in hanging a surprising 25 to 6 shellacking on Cleveland Shaw in its seasonal inaugural last Friday night.

A victory over the East "toughies" would set the Tygers in a good spot to hand such powerhouses as Portsmouth, Toledo Waite and Massillon an eventful evening. However, a loss to the Cleveland outfit would give Paul Snyder's band of sturdy gridders an uphill battle the rest of the campaign.

Mansfield admittedly has one of its toughest schedules and the Bengal horde will have to be "up" for each of its opponents. Springfield, Sandusky, Canton Timken and Martins Ferry were treated rather roughly in their openers but this quartet of scholastic crews always points for the Tygers.

Martins Ferry eked out a decision over little Union, 6 to 2, but the Purple was a trifle overconfident and couldn't recover when the opposition put up an unexpected battle. Sandusky drew a tartar in Cleveland Collinwood and ended up in the lurch, 42-0. Collinwood counted five times in the first half before the Blue Streaks could figure out what had hit them.

Barberton, one of the Buckeye state's better 1946 clubs, gave Timken a bad evening, 27 to 0. Springfield dropped its opener to Columbus West, 25 to 13, in a rugged battle.

But before giving a sigh of relief look how East, Portsmouth and Toledo Waite treated their opening foes. The East game with Shaw has been mentioned but Portsmouth kept its trick stuff hidden away and still ran around and over Ceredo-Kenova, 40 to 6. The Trojans displayed a bad case of jitters in the first period but counted twice in the second heat and three times in the third.

Waite, chief claimant to the 1945 state title, teed off on Elkhart, Ind., for a mere working margin of 56 to 0, presaging a rough time for future opposition.

Massillon and Youngstown Rayen open this week and the former eleven retains its awesome power. The Tigers open Friday night against the strong Cleveland Cathedral Latin club.

Last season, the Snydermen had their hands full in topping East, 18 to 6, and both outfits are loaded this season. Mansfield has 22 letiermen and the East team chips in with a lineup that includes "vets" of the '45 club in each of the starting positions.

East has one of the biggest schoolboy backfields in the business and a couple of sky-scraping ends who can glue on to passes with dispatch. Parker Reynolds, 190 pounds and 6 feet, 4 inches above the sod, holds down one flank and Tom Cooper, a "little" guy at 6 feet, 2 inches, is the other end. Cooper is listed at 162 on the East programs.

Carl Taseff, a 165-pound dynamo, and big Bill Goettling, 190 pounds of line-blasting power, spearhead the East attack. Both are capable passers and when they tuck that pigskin under either arm—well, look out.

Taseff handles the ball and throws passes off the T, but Goettling's accurate right arm comes into play when East shifts to its modified punt formation. Goettling is the Cleveland punter as well.

The Tygers listened to scouting reports of the East-Shaw game last night from Vern Hoffman, assistant coach. Hoffman and Bob Kennedy, John Simpson mentor, looked on as East annihilated Shaw.

Snyder ran his charges through a dummy scrimmage with the "second-stringers" equipped with East plays. The Bengals also added a brace of plays to their repertoire Monday.

Uncle Mike Predicts 300 Grand Gate

NEW YORK —(INS)— Promoter Mike Jacobs today stuck to—or was stuck with—his prediction of at least a $300,000 gate for tomorrow night's heavyweight title fight between Joe Louis and Tami Mauriello and announced that 14,000 seats would be sold at $3.

These record low-priced pews for such an outdoor extravaganza are in the upper tier at Yankee Stadium, and no bleacher seats will be opened up to the spectators.

The promoter also revealed that ringside seats will be limited to about 5,000 on flat platforms. The raised aluminum stands introduced for the Louis-Billy Conn bout last June will not be available due mainly to the trucking strike in New York.

Workmen started getting the seats in place yesterday as the champion and his challenger moved down the stretch at their training camps. Louis worked. Mauriello loafed.

The champion completed his 57 rounds and 14 days of training at Pompton Lakes, N. J., while Mauriello limbered up in his Bronx quarters and last night was honored with a motor parade on the grand concourse. Banners and placards said "on to victory with Mauriello."

Millers Edge Indians

MINNEAPOLIS—(AP)—A three-run rally in the ninth inning gave Minneapolis a 7-6 triumph over Indianapolis last night, squaring their American Association playoffs at three victories apiece sending the two teams into the deciding contest tonight.

Ohio State Playoffs Begin

SPRINGFIELD —(AP)— Springfield and Zanesville, who finished one-two in the Ohio State league this season, began a series here tonight for the post season playoff championship.

Manassa Mauler Says Louis Should Win Early; Tami Mauriello Hits Hard But Can't Retreat

By JACK DEMPSEY
(Former World's Heavyweight Champion)

NEW YORK—(INS)—Joe Louis can't afford to take any chances with Tami Mauriello when he defends the world heavyweight championship for the 23rd time against the Bronx challenger at the Yankee Stadium tomorrow night.

Louis figures to win, and for the record I predict he will win inside of five rounds, but as an old champion I want to caution Joe about being overconfident.

Mauriello is young and strong. He is in good physical condition. Tami can hit hard enough to knock out any heavyweight, including Louis. He has never been knocked out, and therefore enters the ring in a fearless frame of mind.

The challenger is handicapped by a deformed right heel. As a result he can only go forward. He is an aggressive fighter because he has no other choice. That means he is made to order for Louis.

Joe is a counter fighter. He waits for an opponent to lead, and then counters with a straight right to the jaw. Louis couldn't do that against Billy Conn for the latter refused to lead. If Billy had thrown a few punches it would have been a better fight, although I am convinced it would have ended earlier than the eighth round.

The final result would have been the same, but the fans would not have left the Stadium with a dark brown taste in their mouths. In fact had the Louis-Conn fight come up to expectations, Joe and Tami would draw another million-dollar gate. As it is, Promoter Mike Jacobs tells me he will be satisfied to gross $500,000 tomorrow night.

Louis should be a better fighter against Mauriello than he was last June. Going against Conn, the champion had been out of the ring for four years. He had spent those four years in an army uniform, and it was a long hard struggle for him to get into condition. That is the kind of condition you have to be in to defend the heavyweight champion.

He looked bad in training for Conn. This time he has looked good. The Conn fight served as a "tuneup." Now Joe's timing is better and his judgment of distance is more accurate. As a result he has been knocking out sparring partners up at Pompton Lakes, N. J. There is every reason to expect him to win if he is not overconfident.

I have no reason to believe Louis is overconfident, but he has been doing things you don't do when you are training for an important fight. Joe has just opened a restaurant in New York City. He took a week off from training to greet his friends who came to pay their respects. It was a very successful opening, but it took him away from Pompton Lakes for six days.

Now I've opened a couple of restaurants in my time. Its hard work, and it takes a lot of time. I was through as a fighter so it didn't matter, but Louis is still champion and he has a title to defend. He'd better forget about the celebration at the Joe Louis restaurant tomorrow night until after he's knocked out Tami Mauriello.

NEW YORK — (AP) — The stock market suffered another stumble today but casualties were not too severe.

Commission men reported some further bargain-buying on the theory the list should be able to negotiate a better technical comeback. On the offside were U. S. steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, American Telephone, Public Service of N. J., American Smelting, Kennecott, Du Pont, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, U. S. Gypsum, Standard Oil (NJ), Texas Co., Goodyear, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Two Fined for Begging, Fighting

Two persons were fined a total of $20 and costs today in municipal court, one on a begging charge the other on a charge of assault and battery.

Fined $10 and costs for begging was Howard D. Wright, transient.

Charged with assault and battery by his wife, Margaret, Charles Latham, 114½ South Diamond street, was fined $10 and costs and given a 30-day suspended county jail sentence He pleaded guilty.

Mansfield Spenders Break Record Again

Mansfielders are continuing to spend more and more money.

Money transfers by check and withdrawals from savings deposits reached a new all-time high of $30,837,000 in the city during August.

The figure topped by more than $1,400,000 the previous all-time high which was recorded in July, the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland reported yesterday.

Mansfield was one of nine cities among 19 smaller banking centers to reach a new high in debits during August.

The increase marks a 34 per cent boost in debits since August, 1945, and sets a new all-time high for a three-month period ending in August. In that time debits climbed to a record $89,182,000 for a 20 per cent increase over the same period a year ago.

In addition to transfers of funds by check and withdrawals from savings accounts, the $30,800,000 debit figure also represents withdrawals from U. S. treasury deposits.

FORMER AMBASSADOR to Great Britain Joseph P. Kennedy told intimates "to sell" four months ago. Zillionaire Kennedy's financial acumen enriched him with another fortune at that time. Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—Beneath all the issues of wages and hours, of price control and wage stabilization, of racketeering and Communism in the union movement, the damned fact that is responsible for the paralysis of industry is that ugly monument to the pride of an old Tammany machine politician, the labor relations law.

Senator Robert F. Wagner could have averted most of the tragedy to the people of the United States that has been caused by these strikes which today have retarded recovery by a year, had he been willing to admit in time that experience had proved that his law was a monstrosity. President Roosevelt, of course, was at fault, but the correction of the evil conditions established by the Wagner act would have followed immediately if Senator Wagner, himself, ever had admitted that he was wrong.

Not long after the unions began their campaign of violence and other outrage against not only the peace of communities but the civic and human rights of the individual American, I perceived that the bosses of the unions were, at worst, mere protegees of a vicious and reckless organization of political adventurers.

TO BE SURE, when the CIO was being organized in Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania, amid tumult and terror I would have advocated the indictment and prosecution on state charges of John L. Lewis and a number of utterly brutal boss-thugs who terrorized helpless cities. But Roosevelt patronized and encouraged these men, as Mrs. Frances Perkins, his secretary of labor at the time, recently admitted in a side-long way in her memoirs.

The moral effect alone of this partnership between a president and marauding gangs with known Stalinist acting as sergeants, was a general surrender by the people of old liberties and ideals and the impairment of their citizenship.

The Wagner act and the Labor Relations board, deliberately packed with Stalinist enemies of the United States, encouraged rioters, racketeers and highway robbers and the supreme court protected them by a series of decisions There was no word of protest from Senator Wagner.

* * *

ROOSEVELT FLIPPANTLY remarked that when a gang of vandals seized an automobile factory, destroyed materials and equipment of enormous value, beat up citizens going to their lawful employment and refused to obey court orders, they were guilty of nothing worse than trespass, malicious mischief, assault and contempt of court, and admitted it would be impossible to convict the individuals of even those petty offenses.

That these organized assaults on popular government were insurrections he would not admt until he was preparing for a war which he anticipated even while he denied that he did. Only then did he call out the army to break up a picket line and permit workers to build planes for the British. When pickets embarrassed his own plans that was violent insurrection.

* * *

IT IS PATHETIC that a few thousand teamsters should paralyze New York, or a few thousand sailors the sea-borne commerce of the United States. But the Wagner act conferred on a few union officials, with sufficient personal force to dominate their unions, the power to throw all the workers in the United States into idleness. This is not a theory but a legal fact.

Wagner's law tied up the automobile industry so that all but a tiny fraction of the year's production has been lost since V-J Day. His law enabled John L. Lewis, alone, to cripple most of our industries for an immeasurable time by a coal miners' strike. The men who ran these and other strikes contributing to the present desperate situation only exercised powers given them by Senator Wagner's law.

The danger to the nation never will be lifted until the law is changed.

Lippmann — Today and Tomorrow

However you look at it, everyone has lost face in the affair of the Wallace speech at Madison Square Garden. Secretary of State Byrnes is acutely embarrassed: Secretary of Commerce Wallace has been slapped down. President Truman has exposed himself to the world as a bit slow to catch on.

There is no way out of a mess of this sort except to practice the manly virtue of admitting that you have made a mistake. Mr. Truman has tried to do this. But he has not admitted, or even realized, his initial mistake, and therefore he has not managed to close the incident.

His mistake was to let a leading member of his cabinet make a partisan political speech on the gravest issues of foreign policy. When Wallace showed him the speech, the first question before Mr. Truman was not whether he agreed with it. It was whether a member of his administration should break the bipartisan political truce.

The meeting in Madison Square Garden was a political rally. That was the worst place and the last place to discuss issues that have no relation to and should have none with the election of a governor and a senator in New York.

That was sufficient for Mr. Truman to have forbidden Wallace to make the speech. It would have been an excellent reason. For once these questions are entangled with partisan politics, not only is the truce broken but the questions themselves can no longer be considered on their merits.

* * *

When Wallace says at a mass meeting that Gov. Dewey and the Republicans are a British party, he has asked for it if his political enemies retort that he is the leader of the Russian party. That way madness lies.

* * *

If Mr. Truman were to recognize that his first mistake was to let Wallace make a partisan speech on foreign affairs, he may still be able to repair some of the damage. He might do this by issuing a public order as chief executive and as leader of his party saying that the Republican leaders have been cooperating faithfully in the conduct of foreign policy, that differences of opinion do not follow party lines, and that for the remainder of the political campaign no Democrat will with his sanction and approval make a partisan issue of any question in foreign affairs.

That would repair much of the damage, and by its magnanimity and decisiveness would do something to give back to our public life a little of its dignity, its maturity, and its good feeling.

There is another aspect of this incident which points up a problem which needs to be examined, though there is no obvious ready-made solution. Mr. Truman has made it perfectly plain that, though the president is charged with the conduct of foreign affairs, this president is in fact not shaping and guiding our policy.

This means that Byrnes has exceptional responsibility. Indeed, in this century at any rate, there has been no secretary of state, not even Hughes or Stimson, who has had anything like the initiative and ultimate authority that Byrnes possesses.

That being the case, the question must be asked whether it is advisable for Byrnes to spend so much of his time abroad acting as the executor and negotiator of his own policies. For, in 1946 Byrnes is the principal maker of American policy, as was President Wilson in 1919. He is also the day-by-day, point-by-point negotiator of the details of the treaties.

I think I am right in saying that in the judgement of many of the closest students of the former war conference Mr. Wilson's decision to slug it out personally in Paris was one of his greatest mistakes.

PROTEST COSTS LIFE

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Wash Larry, 38, died last night of injuries received in a beating by a group of men who went to his home last Tuesday night after he had protested a $2-a-week rent raise. FORM COUNCIL TO SPONSOR YOUTH PROGRAM

Group Backed By 'YM,' 'YW' to Plan Young People's Activities in City.

A new youth council to direct all student social activities at Senior high school was organized at the YMCA last night following a merger of the Monday and Friday Night clubs.

Still without a name, the new youth council is sponsored jointly by the YMCA and the YWCA with Donald D. Cram and Miss Elizabeth Chapin of the respective organizations acting as advisers.

Formed for the purpose of enlarging the recreation and social activities for high school students in Mansfield and vicinity, the combined council will hold a "Question Mark Dance" at the YMCA on Oct. 4, with Bill Leicy and his seven-piece orchestra furnishing the music.

The dance takes its name from a contest which the council is planning. The winning name will be announced at the dance, with a $5 award going to the boy or girl who submits it.

Ballots will be printed and distributed to former members of the Monday and Griday Night clubs.

Plan Monday Dances.

Regular Monday night juke box dances will be staged by the new organization with the price of admission raised to 10 cents in order to hold down the price for special dances when orchestras are booked. Weekend entertainment programs and dances are also being planned by the new council.

4 Paving Projects on City Streets Nearing Completion

The entire length of Cline avenue may be ready for traffic late this week unless shortage of cement or bad weather prevents completion of the foundation, the city engineer's office reported today.

The new street now is passable from Marion avenue to Gadfield lane and the foundation is in from Marion to Wood street. Curbs and gutters are completed for the entire length of the street.

Although the street will be black-topped when all the foundation is in, cars are now being permitted to use the sections on which the cement foundation has been built.

Sloan avenue has been partly graded and some of the curbing forms have been erected in preparation for paving. Marlow road and Ohio street paving jobs are complete except for black-topping. Cars are using both. Black-topping will be applied on all newly-paved street in one operation.

Resurfacing of Third avenue and Harker street has been completed.

FATAL EXPERIENCE—

Mitzi, that five-month-old kitten who got caught in a drain, is dead. Several weeks ago two Mansfield policemen had to dig her out of an underground drain tile in which she'd become trapped. Sunday, her mistress, Miss Janet Rein, 256 West Fifth street, found her in the basement, dead. To make matters worse, Taffy, the Rein's only other kitten, is gone. Janet says she ran away. In attempting to explain Mitzi's death, Janet said that she had been "acting funny" ever since she was dug out of her underground prison.

BACK ON THE AIR—

H. W. Arlin, Westinghouse public relations director, who announced the first football game on the radio from Pittsburgh 25 years ago, will go back on the air next Saturday afternoon from the same station, KDKA.

Arlin has accepted an invitation from KDKA to help it observe the 25th anniversary of that first football broadcast, and between halves of the Pitt-Illinois game will broadcast with Bill Stern, one of the nation's leading sports announcers. The broadcast will be heard over the National Broadcasting network, in addition to KDKA.

The first regularly employed radio announcer in the nation, Arlin broadcast the first game in 1921. He can't remember whether it was between Pitt and West Virginia or Pitt and Nebraska, but he recalls that he got pretty excited about the contest. "I yelled so loud that the volume blew out a tube in the station and we were off the air for about five minutes while it was replaced," he said.

CURRAN EASES STRIKE TIEUP BY NEW ORDER

Maritime Union President's Directive Also Exempts Foreign Ships.

(By Associated Press)

The CIO National Maritime Union opened the way today to a general easing of the nationwide maritime stoppage by ordering its locals immediately to cease picketing ships manned by the AFL Seafarers International Union "except where they are berthed at the same dock with NMU vessels."

All foreign ships not under contract to the NMU also were exempt from picketing under the new directive, issued this morning by NMU President Joseph Curran.

Curran's order did not mention the future action to be taken by NMU members regarding ships manned by the AFL Sailors Union of the Pacific.

The NMU head said the union's action would free about 40 SIU ships in the port of New York, permitting them to prepare at once to sail.

Curran's directive followed by several hours a request by the AFL maritime trades department that the NMU withdraw its picket lines around all vessels on the Atlantic, Pacific and gulf coasts except CIO-contracted ships "to eliminate the possibility of wide-open jurisdictional warfare along all docks in all ports."

Also involved in the strike is the Marine Firemen, Oilers, Wipers and Watertenders Union, an independent organization.

Want Equal Pay.

The three unions struck Friday at the end of the AFL strike to enforce demands for pay raises equal to those won by AFL seamen.

Curran's order also came shortly after Harry Lundeberg, head of the AFL Sailors' International Union, threatened in San Francisco to classify the CIO strike as "a political strike" if picket lines were not withdrawn from AFL-contracted ships.

Conferences between the NMU and east and gulf coast ship operators were broken off Sunday night when the operators said discussions would be "futile" while the NMU coupled its demands with those of the MCS and MFOWW on the west coast.

The operators also refused to continue the negotiations because of the NMU's action in withdrawing security watches from ships in Atlantic and gulf ports.

The Pacific American shipowners are insisting that the striking MCS and MFOWW return to work before wage talks begin.

The three unions are seeking parity with the AFL sailors who gained wage boosts of $22.50 monthly on the west coast and $27.50 on the east coast. The NMU last June won a $17.50 monthly raise for its members.

Hotel Plans Changes Along With Addition of 100 Rooms

Definite steps toward addition of approximately 100 guest rooms to the Mansfield-Leland hotel were taken yesterday at a meeting of the board of directors of the Richland Hotel company, owner and operator of the property.

Rearrangement of public space on the first and mezzanine floors is also contemplated in plans for the addition, all designed to increase the facilities of the hotel in serving its patrons.

As approved by the directors, the project is to be carried through as soon as materials and labor become available.

Directors also declared the regular dividend of 50 cents a share on stock of the company, payable Oct. 15, together with a special dividend of 50 cents a share, made possible by the exceptionally large amount of business done this year.

Difficulties encountered in maintaining services and obtaining supplies were explained by Eugene Ozier, hotel manager, who said that everything possible is being done to meet the situation and that patrons seem to understand that the same condition exists in all cities.

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Yes, There's Still a Constitution

THIS is the day the nation honors its Constitution—one of the greatest documents on human rights in all history. There are some who will be inclined to observe the day a bit ruefully. They will point to Supreme Court packing, special privilege for labor unions, and abridging of the right of contract by government regulation and interference.

But the Constitution remains the basic law of the land. It is still the fundamental set of principles to which courts and contenders in disputes will be able to turn if and when the folly of bureaucracy is discarded in favor of government by the legislative, executive, and judicial branches.

Ranking with the Magna Charta, the Constitution epitomizes the hope, struggle, and sober thought of western civilization through man's advance toward a better way of living with his fellow men.

Of course, as a document it has force only as men interpret it wisely and carefully. But it has that quality of truth in it which means that those who flout it injure themselves most of all. Those who ignore it, ignore wisdom and experience. Those who think they can by-pass it for political expediency are building a house of cards. And that house will fall as soon as the people of the nation realize that their inherent rights are defended by the Constitution and not by wild promises and economic sleight-of-hand.

Outlook Darkened By Wave of Strikes

ANTICIPATION of violence in the maritime strike, now that the CIO is lined up against the AFL, appears quite in order, as the name-calling stage was reached in New York yesterday, and experience has shown that among picket-line strikers it is only a short step from name-calling to brickbats and bloodshed.

Just why governmental muddling should have extended to the point of granting demanded wage increases to AFL seamen without according the same treatment to CIO groups has not been made clear—and the circumstances appear to justify the CIO howl for a like concession.

Now it is AFL adherents that are being dared to cross CIO picket lines, with the president of an AFL union quoted as saying that his men "would not respect any Commie picket line."

All in all, such a rough house situation, in which laws are being flouted by various minority groups, is quite the opposite of the processes of "orderly government" which is assumed to be one of the bulwarks of democracy, and unless a way can be found to end the constant turmoil that has been experienced in this country ever since V-J day, neither the immediate nor the long-range outlook is bright.

Other strikes are in prospect—many of them—with even a few disgruntled employes holding power to upset the intricate operations of big industries, as is being experienced in the automotive and electrical fields.

An example of majority helplessness is seen in the current strike of municipal employes in Pontiac, Mich., where city services have been at a standstill for some time and where the CIO threat is, that unless demands for wage increases are met in full, there will be a city-wide general strike. "We will shut this town down tight," was the warning of the Industrial Council president. And the sad thing about it is that, with the upper hand that has been gained and the ruthlessness being shown by some union leaders THEY COULD DO IT! Big New York City is now being treated to an example of how a well organized small group can play hob with the food supply of millions of people.

Traffic Lights—Better or Worse?

NOW THAT three weeks have been given to a tryout of the change in traffic light signals at downtown intersections, whereby the green go-ahead signal is maintained through several blocks, instead of alternating with the red "stop" signal from block to block, it seems time for decision on what was introduced as an "experiment."

Purpose of the change was in the hope of expediting motor traffic during rush hours, but if expressed experience of many motorists is to be accepted as a criterion there has been an opposite effect, and a checkup of opinion indicates that the former system was better suited to Mansfield than the present one.

Needless to say, each city must adapt its traffic lights to its own conditions, and Mansfield's variation in length of street blocks presents problems that do not exist in some other cities, as, for instance, the short distance from Walnut to Main street and the long stretch between Mulberry and Bowman street.

Frank expression of views on present and former traffic light plans is invited by Traffic Commissioner Frend Boals, who is giving careful study to this subject.

Little By Little, Prices Mount

ANNOUNCEMENT of OPA grants of price increases on automobiles have come in such homeopathic doses that the full bitterness of the pill has gone almost unnoticed, except by those relatively few persons who have been able to get one of the scarce new cars.

Naturally it would have sounded terrible for OPA to have granted, in one fell swoop, the total of auto price increases that have been granted to date, but the method adopted—that of breaking the bad news gently by upping prices a few percent at a time—has caused little more than a ripple of discontent among those who had been led to believe that wages could be substantially increased without boosting prices of manufactured articles.

Latest increase—the fifth within a year—authorized yesterday as to Ford cars, totals a jump of 28 per cent above 1942 ceilings, and it may be assumed that a quite similar formula will apply to other makes as well.

Cheer up, men, the army always pays eventually. An ex-private in Texas is about to get travel pay and subsistence allowance for a trip home from the Philippines 47 years ago.

Summing up the accident record, the Akron Beacon Journal decides that "neither Akron men nor Akron women can boast about their driving ability."

RIDING A GOOD HORSE TO DEATH

Rush to Rebuild Germany Seen As Attempt to Aid Steel Cartel

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It will be vigorously denied, but it looks as if the Truman powers-that-be were going in for Secretary Byrnes' build-up-Germany policy so wholehog that certain powerful Nazis will be right back in the driver's seat again. In other words, if we are not careful, history is going to repeat again—only worse.

One highly significant, highly important Nazi outfit is under secret study by John Snyder's treasury department right now. The outcome will definitely establish future policy, show whether we are going to re-Nazify or re-democratize Germany.

It is the case of Arbed, famous Nazi steel cartel.

Certain wire-pullers are lobbying to get its funds unfrozen. It has a lot of cash tied up in the USA, and the treasury has been asked to unfreeze them—without a thorough de-Nazification first.

Behind the scenes here is what cooks.

After the last war Woodrow Wilson et al ordered Arbed to become a French and Belgian outfit. However, the Germans, through secret stock purchases, by 1926, had rebought control of these giant, far-flung steel mills. Arbed operated from Argentina to Brazil, but has headquarters in Luxembourg. Thus when Hitler came into power, Arbed was all set for his munitions program. It went to town in a big way.

Arbed's head, appointed by the Nazis, was Aloyse Meyer. He remains head today. The American charge d'affaires, in Luxembourg, George P. Waller, has sent a report, top secret No. 279, to the treasury urging the unfreezing of Arbed's funds and claiming Meyer is not a Nazi.

Real fact, however, is that Meyer was a district fuehrer for the entire steel industry of Luxembourg. In April, 1945, one month before V-E day Meyer even refused an allied investigation team access to the files of the international steel cartel.

In January, 1945, when everyone knew Germany would be defeated, he pretended to exile himself from Germany. That is why Waller supports him. But here is the payoff: During his brief exile, the Nazis continued to send him funds, so he couldn't have been much of a Nazi enemy.

In other words, it looks as if Meyer were one of the many plants the Nazis arranged in foreign countries to be in a position to recapture their industry after the war was lost. It also looks as if certain naive gentlemen in high, unaccustomed places in Washington were all set to let them recapture it.

Steelman's "Sweet Talk."

Before announcing the new wage increase for maritime strikers, Stabilization Director John Steelman called in the Wage Stabilization Board, and told them what he planned to do. He made it short but not sweet.

"I didn't ask you over here to argue about the issues of this dispute," he said, even before the WSB officials had settled in their chairs. "If I wanted advice, we'd have to go all over this thing again, and we'd wind up where we started.

"This maritime strike is costing the country millions of dollars a day. What is more, I have information that many other unions are ready to begin walkouts unless somebody takes action, and that somebody is me, as stabilization director."

Steelman explained that AFL carpenters were ready to announce a strike the following day unless the maritime dispute was ended; also shipyard workers on the west coast. In addition, Steelman said, 80,000 lumber workers were prepared to begin a walkout.

"Well, the case is in your hands," replied WCB Chairman W. Willard Wirtz. "We have taken the position we thought best. If you disagree with us, it's up to you to change it."

Steelman replied that the "only course" left open to him was to reverse the WSB ruling and agree with the maritime commission, which was ready to grant higher wages. He explained that under the strict language of a Truman executive order issued last February, higher pay could be approved without conflicting with the government's stabilization policies, providing the government operated less than half of the nation's shipping, and providing also a majority of private ships operators agreed to pay the wage increases without simultaneously boosting rates.

Admiral Asks For Help.

Steelman said he had contracted private ship operators and the maritime commission, and had been assured that both were willing to absorb the additional labor costs.

What he didn't tell his visitors was that he had just had a long telephone conversation with Vice Admiral W. W. Smith, chairman of the Maritime Commission, in which Smith urged that Steelman overrule the Stabilization Board.

"Since the government is in the minority in this case, it is only fair that private operators should be allowed to fix their own pay scales," Admiral Smith contended. "There's no violation of the stabilization program involved here, in my opinion. That's just a lot of poppycock."

However, Steelman didn't need any reassurances either from Smith or from the private operators. He had decided that the seamen should be awarded raises above the $17.50 approved by the WSB, and he made no bones about asserting his feelings.

Dave Boone Says:

PRESIDENT TRUMAN approves Henry Wallace's right to torpedo Jimmy Byrnes but he don't think Jimmy should be torpedoed. This leaves Mr. Byrnes in about the same position as the dead horse when the startled owner exclaimed to the stableman, "I didn't say take him out and have him shot. I said have him shod!"

The trouble with Harry is that while some men would rather be right than be president few would rather be good-natured than be either.

It's all right to talk about getting tough or not getting tough with Russia but things would shape up a lot better in America if Harry Truman would get tough with Harry Truman.

Essentially a genial man, he seems to be having too much trouble realizing that he is running a harassed nation in one of the great crises of history, not just directing some committee in a club with membership trouble.

COUNTY'S "RICHEST MAN"

WHEN passing through Kentucky, one late summer morning, I stopped at a general store in a little village. Several men had gathered at the west end of the steps, where an old gray bearded fellow was telling a story.

"Down in Bracken county," he began, "there was a wealthy planter with lots of colored servants. He had so much land, so many mules, so many sheep and hogs, that people told him he was the wealthiest man in Bracken county, and he believed it. He lived alone, in his mansion of many rooms.

"One evening late, he came back to his estate through the gate near where his faithful man, Mose lived. Mose liked to sing. He heard him, from a distance, singing 'I'm a child of the King.'

"'Mose,' he said, 'Do you really believe you're a child of the King?'

"'Suttinly—the Good Book say so.' Mose cared for the team and his master went off to bed. But he slept not too well, and presently he awoke from a dream in which a voice cried out, 'At twelve o'clock the richest man in Bracken county will surely die!' It was 11:45. 'Only a funny dream,' he thought, and went back to sleep. But the same voice cried louder the second time, 'Tonight at twelve o'clock the richest man in Bracken county will surely die.'

"'I am the richest man in the county,' he mused, and went to feel of the hands of the clock. Ten minutes until twelve, the clock said. He went back to bed and tried to sleep, but instead he was counting the ticks of the clock as the long hand slowly measured off the minutes until twelve.

"Like one in a daze, he pulled the covers over his head, and waited for the slow strokes of the hour. When it came and ceased, he was still alive. He wondered then, who the richest man might be.

"At six next morning a servant came to the door with news. Mose, the faithful gatekeeper, had died at about twelve o'clock with the words on his lips, 'I'm a child of the King.'

"His master was shocked, of course, but he only bowed his head and made a strange remark . . . 'that's right. He was the richest man in Bracken county!'"

Views Have Changed About Price Controls.

(Editor's note: Kenneth L. Dixon has just completed a seven-month, 15,000-mile tour of America. Following is the first of a series of articles based on his conclusions after talking to thousands of people in more than 40 states.)

WASHINGTON—If a national referendum were held now on the subject, it is quite possible that Americans might outlaw all of the Office of Price Administration except rent controls.

Like the lad who finally lost his fear of the night, their confidence on that score came only after necessity forced them to walk alone and face the unknown.

At the start of the OPA holiday during the summer, the majority of the people whom this correspondent questioned across the country were frightened—some almost frantic in their criticism of congress for letting such a crisis come to pass.

At the end of the period without price ceilings, they were pointing out that the sky had not fallen on them yet, and perhaps wouldn't at all.

Since then, a surprising number are saying, "We might as well get it over with now as later," and, "After all, if we don't like the prices we just don't have to buy."

Naturally, such views are by no means unanimous nor do they represent the opinions of the pressure groups who have waged a public battle for and against OPA since the war's end. But they do represent the normally silent in-betweeners who probably would be hurt the worst if prices skyrocketed out of control.

They were people like Malcolm (Pete) Peters, Denver drugstore employe and ex-veteran who said, "We found out if things got too high, we just didn't have to buy them, and pretty soon the prices had to come down."

Neither Pete nor Buzz Coffman, filling-station attendant across the street who agreed with him, could afford to be merely academic about the question. Both admitted it would take only a little permanent increase in essential prices to wreck their closely calculated family budgets. Yet both believed prices probably would balance in fairly rapid fashion without OPA.

Prior to the price-ceiling recess, neither had any such faith in the leveling power of supply and demand.

Scores of small-income "white collar workers"—said to have suffered the most from upsurging prices—took the same stand. They said the OPA holiday showed that sales competition soon would shove the cost of most commodities back down from a momentary zoom.

Yet six weeks before, such people were not at all sure such would be the case and were frankly frightened at the prospect of life without price ceilings.

In Kansas City, a man whose profession involves polling public opinion said secret of the trend lay largely in the growing general belief that most current shortages are either artificial or temporary.

"People feel that many such phoney shortages will vanish with the elimination of price ceilings," he said, "and that the real shortages will be straightened out just that much sooner without government regulation."

In MaComb, Ill, editor Lew Randalph of the Daily Journal cited another cause of the shifting sentiment.

"People are beginning to realize that it's no longer enforceable," he said, "and that's the final test of any law. No matter how good it may be, when you can't enforce it you'd better throw it out, because—like bootlegging during prohibition—when people start breaking it wholesale, they're going to break a lot more laws right along with it.

In Detroit, a widely known labor leader who loudly supported price ceilings in public said privately he believed sentiment was swinging so much against OPA that "from now on I'm afraid it will do more harm than good."

All of this was a far cry from the first of July when people seemed almost panicky at the prospect of uncontrolled prices.

Yet, as was mentioned before, the one notable exception to the shifting sentiment apparently is rent control. Probably because housing not only is a basic essential but also is suffering from one of the nation's greatest and most genuine shortages, most people questioned still preferred to hold the law over their landlords!

Various Opinions On Wallace's Speech.

WASHINGTON — Seldom is a hiss more welcome than a cheer in politics.

But a good many people in the liberal or progressive wing of the Democratic party, as contrasted with the far left where the Communists do their devilment, were delighted with the hisses that greeted Henry Wallace in Madison Square Garden when he castigated some of the political methods of Russia and what he called "native Communists faithfully following every twist and turn in the Moscow party line."

Mr. Wallace anticipated such a reception. He knew that many Communist and party-liners would be in his audience at the rally of the National Citizens PAC and the Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts and Sciences.

It might be expected that they would express themselves when he made the public gesture of singling them out to shake them off.

His gesture was carefully premeditated and calculated. It was well-timed and in the proper setting.

It served to dispel confusion among many New Dealers and liberals and progressives who have sat about wringing their hands and moaning and groaning about what goes on in the world, with none among them able to define a position, and no Franklin D. Roosevelt around to tell them what to think.

For some time they have been disturbed by Russian moves and tactics on the international scene and, more directly, by the infiltration of Communists in organizations here at home to confuse objectives and bring down attacks. They feel better now that Henry Wallace has spoken out. He is a recognized leader in the New Deal wing of the party, the only one still left in the cabinet. His voice carries authority and commands respect among them.

Mr. Wallace outlined a valid position by condemning Russian methods in what he, himself, recognizes as the Soviet sphere of influence in eastern Europe and by denouncing the tactics of native Communists.

At the same time he held out hope for friendship and practical co-operation with our war ally without a "get-tough" attitude and by following a policy of our own without reference to British foreign policy.

One hopeful result would be encouragement of efforts to eliminate Communists from key places in labor unions and organizations in the field of public affairs.

Politically Mr. Wallace's stand may be helpful. In the congressional campaign Republicans are making a major issue out of alleged Communist tie-ups with the Democratic party. Anything Mr. Wallace might say, of course, will not stop or even slow down such a campaign. But it gives Democrats a credo.

His speech was, among other things, a political document.

In the course of it he took time out to call the Republican party "the party of economic nationalism and political isolation," and to recall Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's advocacy some time back of a military alliance with Great Britain.

Republicans retorted in kind, shouting that Mr. Wallace still is trying to appease Russia and to maintain an alliance with radical political elements to win the election.

They also accused the commerce secretary of sabotaging the Atlantic Charter by his Big Three sphere of influence proposal that would yield up to Russia domination over neighboring small countries in which Mr. Wallace said we had no business politically.

The Wallace sphere-of-influence proposal, which he suggested reluctantly and because of "the hard facts of power politics," was disappointing to many liberals in the Democratic party and outside, even though he proposed it as a stopgap, as did Mr. Roosevelt before him, until a functioning, powerful United Nations can protect small nations with a body of international law.

But some of the criticism was not founded thus in sincerity. It came, and with all grace, from some of those who previously had ridiculed the Atlantic Charter, and whose sudden ardor for the Charter now seems mostly political, and certainly synthetic.

London Squatters Become Political Issue.

AN OBSERVANT Florida editor has asked me for an interpretation of London's Communist-supported squatter campaign which has produced the astonishing though colorful spectacle of hundreds of vacant luxury apartments in London being occupied by homeless invaders under expert guidance.

Well, that's a good question, because as I see it this movement has been taken over by British Communists in a smart political maneuver. It is calculated to embarrass the present Socialist government and to lay the groundwork for its defeat in the next general election which under normal circumstances would be held four years hence.

To get the full import of this move, one must understand what happened in the general election a year ago.

Britain then amazed the world by turning out the conservative government, headed by the famous war-leader, Winston Churchill, and electing a Labor (Socialist) house of commons.

Now that didn't mean that the majority of the normally conservative people of England suddenly had swung hard left. What happened was that a lot of conservatives, being dissatisfied with the Churchill government's handling of domestic problems, decided to give the Socialists a chance to see what they could do with such pressing questions as demobilization, employment and housing. So these conservatives — without abandoning their political beliefs —voted for the Socialists and put them on trial without regard to politics.

When I was in England a few months ago I talked with numerous political experts about the situation. The Socialists recognized that they were indeed on trial and that if they didn't make good they would be thrown out in the next general election through loss of votes among people outside the Socialist party. That is, the Socialist vote alone wouldn't be sufficient for re-election.

But what trend would the voting take? Would it swing back into the conservative fold, or would it go still further left and give the untried Communists a chance? Some highly placed Socialists professed to fear that it would go Red. However, the majority of observers felt that the country would return to conservatism if the Socialists didn't make good.

Be that as it may, there is no love between British Socialists and British Communists. The new government has turned thumbs down on communism for home consumption, and London and Moscow have been viewing each other through dark glasses —as witness their fiery clashes in the "peace" conference and "United" Nations security council.

So shrewd British Communists saw a chance in the bad housing situation not only to cause the Socialist government trouble but to make British communism the hero of the English working class—the ism which could deliver the goods where both conservatives and socialists had failed.

Furthermore—and this is important—any move which the Socialist government might make to eject squatters would be likely to put it in the position of favoring "capital" as against the man-in-the-street.

Harry Pollitt, secretary general of the British Communist party, told a massmeeting that the "working class is in a fighting mood," and hinted that the endurance test was just beginning.

There hasn't been much "fight" so far (though that might come) but it's true that the squatters, bolstered by the Communists, are continuing to sit tight in their strange new quarters and, where facilities are available for washing clothes, are hanging junior's diapers out to the indignant gaze of aristocratic neighbors. In some cases the authorities have cut off both light and water from the seized apartments.

Meanwhile the unhappy government is trying to unhook the seat of its trousers from the horns of the dilemma. Prime Minister Attlee and his colleagues know that they will be damned if they oust the squatters, and will be equally damned if they don't."

THIS is the hottest September that Washington has had in years . . . the thermometer in the White House has been climbing steadily since the Wallace speech.

I understand that Republican national headquarters has wired all GOP candidates . . . "Lie low boys . . . We've got Henry and Harry working for our side."

Yep . . . it really looks as though "60 Million Job Henry" took on one too many for himself. But his importance as a spokesman for his party must not be underestimated.

He is so beloved by the Democrats that after one term as vice president 13 other guys were put in nomination with him for the job so he couldn't be lonesome.
